The Nightmare Blooms (2016) Cover Art by Skottie Young Written by Derek Collard Art by Travis Anthony Colored by Dominique Araujo Lettered by Chris Eliopoulos "Payton, did you have the nightmare again?" "I do," Payton screamed, her voice hoarse and raw from yelling for so long. "Payton, what was it about? What did you dream?" James asked, his eyes glassy and pained. "I dreamt that I went home to find out that my mother and father were dead," Payton said, rubbing her arms. "That's terrible," James said. "When was this? And how do you know that they are dead?" "This was two months ago," Payton said, her voice cracking with the force of her emotions. "One night, after I had a nightmare, I woke up and tried to call Mom, but she wasn't there. Dad was there, though, and he said that he was coming over to take me home, but then Mom came and we argued and she told me that they were gone and I thought that it was true. James, I don't know what to do." "Oh my god, Payton, is there anything I can do to help?" James asked. "Thank you for asking me, James, but no, I don't think there 82157476af
